It appears by a Survey lately made, that there is about 600 Acres of the 1000, prime Rice Land; and the most Part of the Remainder, good Provision Land. There is 70 Acres of the Swamp Land cleared, also 40 Acres of the Provision Land, and under good Fence.

The most Part of the Swamp Land that is cut down, has been planted for some few Years past, and it is thought to be not more than 13 Miles from this Plantation to the Landing that is now made Use of, and a very clear Probability of the Landing being four or five Miles nearer, as the Tide flows about this Distance farther up the River than where the Landing is at present.

There is Five or Six Hundred Bushels of PROVISION at the above Plantation, which will be disposed of to the Purchaser, if agreeable.——On said Plantation is a very good Barn on Cills, 40 by 20 Feet; a very good Overseer's House, Negro Houses, &c. LONDON, MARCH 7.

The Speech of his Excellency George Lord Townſhend, his Majeſty's Lieutenant-General, and Governor-General of Ireland, to both Houſes of Parliament, at Dublin, on Tueſday, February 26, 1771.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

IT is with the trueſt ſatisfaction that I obey his Majeſty's commands to meet you here again in parliament. The affection which his Majeſty bears to his faithful ſubjects of Ireland, and his readineſs to concur with you in every meaſure which may conduce to their proſperity, have determined his Majeſty to call you together at this time, that you may take into your ſerious conſideration ſuch laws as ſhall be found to be immediately neceſſary for the general good of this country. The preſent high price of corn is an object of the firſt importance, and demands your utmoſt attention; and I alſo recommend to you the continuance or reviſal of ſuch laws as from experience have proved of advantage to the public. I have particular pleaſure in being able to inform you, that not only the uſual bounties on the exportation of Iriſh linens have been continued by the Britiſh Parliament, but that they have been ſtill further extended; a circumſtance which I hope will be productive of beneficial effects to that manufacture.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

As I have reaſon to expect that, with very ſtrict œconomy, the duties which which were granted laſt ſeſſion of Parliament, and which will not expire until Chriſtmas next, may be ſufficient to anſwer the expences of his Majeſty's government, I am not now to aſk for any further ſupply.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The increaſe of his Majeſty's Royal family by the birth of another Princeſs, ſince the laſt ſeſſion of Parliament, is an event in which we are all intereſted, and muſt afford us the ſincereſt pleaſure. His Majeſty's paternal care of this kingdom requires every return of gratitude on your part; and I have no doubt, from your known loyalty, that you will manifeſt your ſenſe for his good by the temper and unanimity of your proceedings.

I rejoice in this opportunity of co-operating with you for the public welfare, and I flatter myſelf our endeavours will be mutual to bring this ſeſſion to a ſpeedy and happy concluſion."

Extract of a Letter from Paris, dated February 15.

"Since the diſgrace of the Parliament, the following curious paper is circulated here.

"The liberty, Sire, that Princes owe to their people, is the liberty of the laws. You are maſter of the lives and fortunes of your ſubjects; yet you cannot diſpoſe of them but according to law. It is true, you acknowledge none but God above you; but the laws ought to have more authority even than yourſelf. You do not rule over ſlaves; you govern a free and warlike nation, as jealous of her liberties as of her fidelity, and whoſe allegiance is ſo much the more ſecure, as it is founded on the love ſhe bears her maſters. Her Kings are omnipotent over her, becauſe her tenderneſs and loyalty ſet no bounds to her obedience; but her Kings muſt themſelves limit their own authority; and in proportion as her love knows no other law than a blind ſubmiſſion, her Kings muſt exact nothing from that ſubmiſſion, but what the laws permit them to exact from it: Otherwiſe they are no longer the fathers and protectors of their people, they are the enemies and oppreſſors of them; they no longer reign over their ſubjects, they ſubdue them.

"The power of your auguſt great grandfather over the nation, has ſurpaſſed that of all the Kings your predeceſſors. A long and glorious reign had ſtrengthened it; his great wiſdom ſupported it; and the love of his ſubjects ſcarce put any farther bounds to it. Nevertheleſs, he has more than once known how to make it give way to the laws; take them for arbitrators between him and his ſubjects, and nobly ſubmit his concerns to their deciſions.

"It is not then the Sovereign. It is the law, Sire, that ought to reign over the people. You are only its miniſter and firſt depoſitary—it is the law that ought to regulate the exerciſe of authority; and it is by the law, that this authority is no longer a yoke to the ſubjects, but a rule that guides them; a help that protects them; a paternal watchfulneſs, that ſecures their ſubmiſſion, only becauſe it ſecures their love. Men believe themſelves free, while they are governed only by the laws; their whole happineſs conſiſts then in their ſubmiſſion, becauſe that ſubmiſſion conſtitutes their peace and confidence. Paſſion and all the inordinate and ambitious deſires which Princes mingle with the exerciſe of authority, far from extending it, rather weaken it; they become leſs powerful, as ſoon as they want to be above the laws; they loſe when they think to gain; whatſoever renders authority unjuſt and odious, enervates and leſſens it; the ſource of their power is in the hearts of their people; and however arbitrary they may appear, it is certain they loſe their real power, the moment they loſe the love of their ſubjects."

In order to detach a certain patriotic Serjeant from his preſent connections, one of the benches in Weſtminſter-hall was lately offered him; which was refuſed with a juſt abhorrence.

Mr. Pownall made the following motion in the Houſe of Commons on Tueſday: "That in the late negociation with the Court of Spain concerning Falkland's Iſlands, his Majeſty's Miniſters having neglected to demand an explanation of the oath of office taken by the Spaniſh Governors in America, their general orders, and the eſtabliſhed laws of America, under which theſe Governors pretend to act, and under which the Court of Spain doth pretend to juſtify them in commencing hoſtilities, his Majeſty's rights and poſſeſſions in America remain thereby expoſed, and liable to be diſturbed by the ſaid Governors, under pretence of ſuch oaths of office, their general orders, and the eſtabliſhed laws of America."—On the diviſion, 43 were for the motion, and 120 againſt it.

An evening paper of laſt night, ſays, that a remonſtrance has arrived within theſe two days from Spain, relative to the iſland, (one of the Moluccas) to the government of which Mr. Dalrymple, in the Eaſt India company's ſervice, has been lately appointed. The Spaniards claim a right to it, aſſerting it to be one of the Philippine iſlands.

Several Engliſh gentlemen of diſtinction, we hear, have received ſuch diſguſts in their foreign expeditions, from impoſitions, &c. &c. that they have declared a reſolution to exert their utmoſt abilities, on their return to their native country, to render the tour of Great-Britain the firſt accompliſhment of a fine gentleman, and the ſtudy of the Britiſh laws, cuſtoms, and privileges a more faſhionable acquiſition than even the French language.

It is already given out, that the young King of Sweden will refuſe to ſign the ratification of ſome peculiar privileges, which the Sedate formerly exacted from his father, and which are in general conſidered as derogatory to the prerogative.

It is generally believed, that the death of the King of Sweden will be productive of ſome very important, if not alarming changes in the ſyſtem of politics of that nation.

Thurſday the auguſt aſſembly took into further conſideration, the bill for the more ſpeedy proceedings in writs of Quo Warranto, which was committed for Monday.

Thurſday night a motion was made by Mr. Dowdeſwell, in the Houſe of Commons, relating to the power of Juries. At ten the Houſe divided, when the numbers appeared to be, for the motion, 72, againſt it, 218.——The Patriots were the only ſpeakers. The Miniſters opened not their mouths."

MARCH 9.

The Addreſs of the Houſe of Commons of Ireland, unanimouſly reſolved by that Houſe, on the ſecond of this month, to be preſented to His Majeſty.

Moſt gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal ſubjects, the Commons of Ireland, in Parliament aſſembled, beg leave to expreſs, in the moſt dutiful manner, our unbounded gratitude to your Majeſty, for the affection you are graciouſly pleaſed to declare towards your faithful ſubjects of Ireland, and your readineſs to concur with us in every meaſure which may conduce to their proſperity. We return our moſt humble thanks to your Majeſty, for giving us this opportunity of taking into our conſideration ſuch laws as ſhall be found immediately neceſſary for the general good of this kingdom, and for the reviveing thoſe, which from experience, have proved of advantage to the public; and we aſſure your Majeſty, that with hearts full of gratitude, we aſcribe this, and every other benefit we receive, to the ſpontaneous dictates of your Majeſty's royal juſtice and benignity. We acknowledge the great wiſdom and humanity of your Majeſty, in recommending to us as an object of the higheſt importance, the preſent high price of Corn in this kingdom. We place the juſteſt confidence in your Majeſty's gracious favour and protection, for the ſupport and encouragement of our principal branch of trade, the Linen Manufacture; and we are happy to find, that not only the uſual bounties on the exportation of our linens have been continued, but that they have been further extended by the Britiſh parliament. When we conſider the preſent ſituation of this country, with regard to Trade, we have the higheſt ſatisfaction in being informed, that with very ſtrict œconomy, the duties which were granted laſt ſeſſion of parliament, and which will not expire until Chriſtmas next, may be ſufficient to anſwer the expences of your Majeſty's government, and that no further ſupplies are to be aſked for. And we beg leave to aſſure your Majeſty, that as nothing can affect us more ſenſibly than any mark of your royal diſpleaſure, and that we are incapable, even in thought, of attempting any thing againſt your Majeſty's authority, or the rights of the crown of Great-Britain, from whence we own, with the utmoſt gratitude, we derive our principal protection and ſupport. We acknowledge, with the moſt perfect ſubmiſſion, that we are ever tenacious of the honour of granting ſupplies to your Majeſty, and of being the firſt movers therein, as they are the voluntary tribute of grateful hearts to the beſt of Monarchs; and we moſt humbly beſeech your Majeſty, that your Majeſty will not permit our zeal in this particular to be conſtrued into an invaſion of your Majeſty's royal authority, than which nothing can be more diſtant from our thoughts. And we beg leave to aſſure your Majeſty, that your Majeſty's rights are equally dear to us as our own, as we are ſenſible that our happineſs depends upon the preſervation of both inviolate. We congratulate your Majeſty on the increaſe of your Majeſty's royal family, by the birth of another Princeſs, ſince the laſt ſeſſion of parliament; an event the moſt intereſting to us, as we conſider every addition to your royal family as an increaſe of ſtrength to the Proteſtant Intereſt, and to the happineſs of this kingdom. We return our moſt humble thanks to your Majeſty, for continuing his Excellency Lord Viſcount Townſhend, in the government of this kingdom; from whoſe approved integrity, and from whoſe long knowledge and experience of us, and our ſentiments, we are perſuaded, a juſt repreſentation will be made of our Loyalty and Duty to the beſt of Princes.

To his Excellency George, Lord Viſcount Townſhend, Lord Lieutenant General, and General Governor of Ireland, The humble Addreſs of the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeſſes, in Parliament aſſembled.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

WE, his Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal ſubjects, the Commons of Ireland, in Parliament aſſembled, return your Excellency our moſt unfeigned thanks, for your moſt excellent Speech from the Throne, and beg leave to expreſs our ſincere congratulations on this parliament being appointed to meet again under your Excellency, from whoſe approved integrity, and from whoſe long knowledge and experience of us, and our ſentiments, we are perſuaded a juſt repreſentation will be made of our loyalty and duty to the beſt of Princes. We acknowledge, with great gratitude, the continuance and extenſion of the bounties given by the Britiſh Parliament, on the exportation of Iriſh Linens. We return your Excellency thanks for the information you have been pleaſed to give us, that you have reaſon to expect, that the duties which were granted laſt ſeſſion of parliament may be ſufficient to anſwer the expences of his Majeſty's government, and that you are not to aſk for any further ſupply. We ſhall, with the trueſt pleaſure, co-operate with your Excellency in all that may tend to the public welfare, and in all our deliberations ſhall obſerve that temper and unanimity, which alone can render our proceedings beneficial to the public, and bring them to a ſpeedy and happy concluſion.

His EXCELLENCY's ANSWER.

I Thank the Houſe of Commons for their kind addreſs. I receive with great pleaſure, their congratulations on this Parliament being appointed to meet again under me. My long knowledge and experience of them, and of their ſentiments, will always induce me to make a juſt repreſentation of their loyalty and duty to his Majeſty.

MARCH 12.

Yeſterday the reſolutions of Friday laſt were agreed to, that the charge of the militia be defrayed out of the land-tax for 1771.

The further conſideration of the bill for the more ſpeedy proceeding in writs of Quo Warranto is deferred for three months.

NEWCASTLE, March 2. Yeſterday, at a common council, a petition was ſigned to parliament, praying leave to import Wheat and Wheat-Flour from his Majeſty's colonies in America, duty free.

MARCH 14.

The following is an exact copy of the letter ſent by the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons of Ireland to the Members of that Houſe, when he reſigned the Chair.

DUBLIN, March

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

WHEN I had the honour of being unanimouſly elected to the Chair of this Houſe, I entered on that high office with the warmeſt ſentiments of loyalty to his Majeſty, and the firmeſt determination to dedicate all my endeavours to tranſmit to my ſucceſſor the rights and privileges of the Commons of Ireland, as inviolate as I received them.

But, as the cloſe of the laſt ſeſſion of Parliament, his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant was pleaſed to accuſe the Commons of a crime (which, I am confident, was as far from their intentions, as it ever was, and ever ſhall be, from mine) that of intrenching upon his Majeſty's royal prerogative, and the juſt and undoubted rights of the Crown of Great-Britain. And as it has pleaſed the Houſe of Commons to take the firſt opportunity, after this tranſaction, of teſtifying their approbation of the conduct of the Lord Lieutenant, by voting him an addreſs of thanks this ſeſſion, I muſt, as in my humble opinion that addreſs conveys a tacit cenſure of the proceedings, and a relinquiſhment of the privileges of the Commons, beg leave to reſign an office I can no longer execute with honour. Your choice may fall upon ſome gentleman, whoſe ſentiments upon this occaſion, may differ from mine, and who may not think an addreſs of this nature to derogatory to the dignity of the Houſe.

Signed JOHN PONSONBY.

It is now pretty certain, that ſome foreign Bickerings were the cauſe of the late alteration in the price of ſtocks, however diligently concealed, or dextrouſly terminated.

The following are the reſolutions granted for the encouragement of the Whale Fiſhery, viz.

That a bounty be continued on the ſhips employed in the whale fiſhery to Greenland, Davis's Straits, and places adjacent for a limited time.

They write from Jutland, in Norway, that the weather has been ſo extremely ſevere there, that ſeveral villages in that neighbourhood are reduced to the utmoſt diſtreſs, the ſnow being, in ſome places, 35 feet deep.

The Queen is expected to be brought to bed in April.

We can aſſure the public, that a memorial did actually arrive in the courſe of laſt week, from France to our Court, demanding why our naval preparations were ſtill kept in motion, and inſiſting on almoſt a categorical anſwer. Mr. Walpole's haſty return to England was on that buſineſs.—The ſtocks fell as ſoon as the report tranſpired, and have continued to do ſo ſince: They fluctuated very conſiderably on Monday.

MARCH 16.

India ſtock fell this day ten, and bank ſtock five per cent. occaſioned, as it is ſaid, by the alarming ſtate of the nation through our domeſtic diviſions.

"In the reign of Queen Anne, in 1704, ſeveral Freemen of the borough of Ayleſbury, had been refuſed the liberty of voting at an election for a Member of Parliament, though they proved their qualifications as ſuch: The law in this caſe impoſes a fine on the returning officer of 100l. for every ſuch offence. On this principle they applied to Lord Chief-Juſtice Holt, who ordered the officer to be arreſted. The Houſe of Commons alarmed at this ſtep, made an order of the Houſe, to make it penal for either Judge, Council, or Attorney, to aſſiſt at the trial; however, the Lord Chief-Juſtice, and ſeveral Lawyers, were hardy enough to oppoſe this order, and brought it on in the King's-Bench. The Houſe, highly irritated at this contempt of their orders, ſent a Serjeant at Arms for the Judges to appear before them; but that reſolute defender of the laws bade him, with a voice of authority, be gone!—on which they ſent a ſecond meſſage, by their Speaker, attended by as many Members as eſpouſed the meaſure. After the Speaker had delivered his meſſage, his Lordſhip replied to him in theſe remarkable words—"Go back to your chair, Mr. Speaker, within theſe five minutes, or you may depend on't I'll ſend you to Newgate: You ſpeak of your authority, but I tell you I ſit here as an Interpreter of the Laws, and a Diſtributor of Juſtice, and were the whole Houſe of Commons in your belly, I will not ſtir one foot."—The Speaker was prudent enough to retire, and the Houſe were equally prudent to let the affair drop.
